Las Palmas de Gran Canaria hosts in October the projections of the Canarias Surf Film Festival 2017 (CSFF): an itinerant contest for the islands of the Archipelago, which stops at the Elder Museum of Science and Technology on 27, 28 and 29 to present a complete offer of leisure, lectures, music and cinema in a Surf environment. This event is organized with the collaboration, among other institutions and entities, of the City Council of the Town Hall of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria.

The organization of competitions like CSFF reinforce the condition of Surf City of Las Palmas de Gran Canaria: a city with a long history surfer, ideal conditions to practice this luck and a passionate hobby for this sport. Factors that have placed it among the great capitals of European surfing.

The musical offer of the program in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria is composed by Daniel Miranda, Irtap, Jimmy The Biscuit, Oswaldo, The Piri Experience Rob Medina and Woodhands: artists, bands and DJs, which animate the festival's projection agenda. Cinema and documentary work condensed in titles such as Given, Crube Gold-Las of the Great Surfing Hippies, Berzeke, Manuel Lezcano-A Canarian Winter, One Shot, The Persistence Hope, The Ghost Ship, Sealone, Tenerife Giant, A Road Thorough Galicia o South to Sian. Works linked to the practice of surfing and its protagonists.

The Canarias Surf Film Festival (CSFF) is an itinerant surfing film festival between the islands of the Archipelago, which aims to celebrate the passion for living by the ocean. The organization seeks to connect film directors, athletes, friends and family with this agenda of projections, music, exhibitions, presentations and workshops, to "enjoy the different stories captured by the camera of the best artists of this genre."
